Laurence, Yves, Claire-Andrée & Noémie Lavoie-Tremblay

For Noémie Lavoie-Tremblay, the passion for horses began at an early age. She started taking riding lessons at age 6 and by the age of 12 had her first horse. Noémie took part in the sport-study program during her high school years to expand her knowledge of the equine industry. Thanks to her mentors and coaches, Noémie has been very successful on the western pleasure circuit including several provincial championships. In 2012 she qualified for the youth world show in Oklahoma and was also a finalist in the All- American Quarter Horse Congress in Ohio. Noémie also spent some time in the United States working with top coaches and was quickly recognized for her skills as a trainer. This led the Lavoie-Tremblay family to purchase the present property, located in Lévis, to meet the demand of their growing clientele. Now known as “Ranch LT Performance”, the services offered include boarding, a breeding program, horse training and breaking, riding lessons for competitive and recreational riders, and summer camps. In addition, Noémie welcomes a dozen students in the sport-study program, including her sister Laurence who has the chance to train with her on a daily basis. In the next few years, Noémie wants to continue supporting her students in competition and wants to qualify her sister, Laurence, for the youth world show. They’re considering competing in the United States to get the points needed to qualify. Laurence is already preparing for the novice world show next year in South Carolina. Noémie also wants to develop her stallion in competition to promote his future foals.

Noémie stresses the importance of good nutrition. "The feed must meet the needs of our horses who work very hard. Brooks' feeds are very palatable, and the horses love it. Sound nutrition from Brooks helps my horses train well, stay healthy and look beautiful!" At the ranch, a full range of feeds are available to meet the diverse needs of the horses, including Power Play, Phase 2 and Fit & Fiber.
